CONCLUSIONS

The recent advancements in U.S. legislation introduce an exciting new phase for online gambling. Despite heavy restrictions, more and more businesses are entering the American market as the industry becomes more popular nationwide.

Adding more payment processors and methods, like cryptocurrencies and carrier billing, and ultimately repealing the Wire Act would benefit the industry significantly.

However, the latest regulation wave is already creating an entirely new market with enormous scalable business opportunities for operators, investors, innovators and supporting industries.

With the potential to become the biggest gambling market in the world, the future of interactive gaming in the United States has never looked brighter.
